Impoundment Of Voted Funds Challenged

WASHINGTON (AP) — Accusing the White House of overstepping the Constitution, a Senate panel is challenging President Nixon's refusal to spend $11.1 billion appropriated by Congress.

Sen. Sam J. Ervin's Judiciary subcommittee on separation of powers is examining the practice of impoundment under which the executive branch has withheld money earmarked mostly for highways and defense projects this fiscal year.

Ervin, D-N.C., said before today's hearing: "The growing practice of executive impoundment is another in a long line of developments in the operation of our national government that are eroding the powers of the legislative branch."

"Under the present impoundment practice," Ervin added,
"the President has an item veto over acts of Congress.
There is not a word in the Constitution giving such a power."

Ervin said neither he nor other members of Congress objects to the executive branch apportioning funds to avoid deficiencies or returning money to the Treasury when a project costs less to complete than was appropriated.

But to Ervin, "the use of the impounding practice to avoid or nullify congressional intent" is another matter.

The tabulation of $11.1 billion unspent funds as of Feb. 23 was compiled by the Office of Management and Budget earlier this month for the Senate Appropriations Committee.

The largest amount was nearly $6 billion in highway funds.
The next largest was $1.3 billion in Defense Department funds.

Mars Life Test Success

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) —
Three scientists sterilized fine soil and ground glass then bombarded it with ultraviolet radiation. The result: indications that Mars could support a form of life.

Drs. Norman Horowitz, Jerry Hubbard and James Hardy experimented for a year at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory of the California Institute of Technology.

"Our findings show that organic material is probably being produced by sunlight on the surface of Mars," they reported Monday.

They simulated Martian soil with baked earth and crushed glass, and the thin atmosphere with carbon dioxide, carbon monoxide and water vapor.

They said the gases combined with the soil and glass and, reacting with ultraviolet radiation like that which reaches Mars in sunlight, formed organic compounds just below the surface.

Vocational School Standards Spotty, Survey Discloses

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fed-

pumping millions of dollars into private vocational schools whose educational and ethical standards get scant government surveillance.

Government officials say their agencies lack the manpower or authority to effective-nefitting from the $250 million Veterans Administration and Office of Education programs.

An Associated Press study showed a vast majority of the ing for jobs in fields ranging from computer programming to centage don't, and officials say these few are responsible for the flow of complaints to fed-

'Zero Draft' Plan Nears House OK

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's "zero draft" volunteer-army concept, with nearly triple the initial pay boost he asked to attract recruits, may gain House approval in the next three weeks.

Even opponents of the two-year draft extension that goes with the bill say the President's volunteer-military goal has scattered House draft opposition.

The two-year extension jumping the President's $987-million pay-raise incentive for volunteers next year to $2.7 billion was approved by the House
Armed Services Committee
Monday. The vote was 36 to 4.

Leaders of an 87-member House bloc seeking to abolish the draft and rely strictly on an all-volunteer military praised the committee's pay boost.

One, Rep. William A. Steiger, R-Wis., said there still will be a floor effort to extend the draft one year instead of two, but he said House draft opposition has not had the "focus" this year that it had last year.

Besides the pay increase and draft extension, the committee bill would authorize President Nixon to abolish student draft deferments, including those for divinity students, and would increase nonmilitary service for conscientious objectors from two to three years.

Nixon Says Laos Operation Guarantees U.S. Pullout

Viet Reds, U.S. Forces Clash

SAIGON (AP) — North Vietnamese stepped up their attacks on U.S. forces in the northwest corner of South Vietnam today as more thousands of South Vietnamese troops fled across the border from Laos.

Enemy mortars, rockets and sappers hit the Khe Sanh base and eight other U.S. posts supporting the South Vietnamese in Laos. The U.S. Command reported seven Americans killed and 40 wounded.

North Vietnamese gunners also shot down two U.S. jet fighter-bombers Monday, one of them with a Russian surface-to-air missile—SAM.

South Vietnamese forces were rapidly closing out their 44-day-old campaign in Laos to cut North Vietnam's Ho Chi Minh trail supply network. A spokesman, Lt. Col. Tran Van An, said another 7,000 troops had withdrawn across the border, leaving 5,000 in Laos out of the peak force of 22,000. He said the Saigon forces had abandoned another fire base and only two remained in their

Traffic Ticket Probe Starts

May Be Widened
Beyond Cincinnati

CINCINNATI (AP) — A probe of alleged traffic ticket fixing in Cincinnati indicated the city may be out $750,000 in fines and a spokesman for State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson said the investigation will probably be extended to other Ohio cities.

The Cincinnati Enquirer reported this morning that the number of tickets fixed could go as high as 90,000, according to John A. Blum, director of the auditor's Bureau of Inspection.

Blum said the Cincinnati investigation will take five to six months noting that "the traffic department has not been audited for 25 years."

At the same time he said field auditors around the state have been alerted to check traffic situations in their areas and to follow up with "periodic random checks of tickets issued and fines received."

In Cincinnati, newly appointed Police Chief Carl Goodwin said he welcomed the audit.

"This means the auditor's office will be checking out approximately 300,000 traffic tickets," the chief said. "I welcome the opportunity to clear this thing up and will have a statement once a report is made."

The Cincinnati Enquirer recently printed a series of articles in which it said some city officials, including a judge, police and court officials were exempted from paying traffic fines.

Ferguson said he had sent an examiner to Cincinnati Friday to begin a preliminary investigation.

He said the probe was sparked by a letter he received from Richard L. Kiley, a teacher at Cincinnati Courter Tech High School and an unsuccessful legislative candidate for the legislature last year.

Kiley said in the letter the police force was wrongly implicated by the articles and asked Ferguson to audit the city traffic department.

A decision of the Teays Valley Board of Education to hold double sessions in their high school building next year was debated at the regular board meeting last night.

The school board voted four to one last week to arrange special scheduling to hold high school classes in the morning at TVHS and seventh and eighth grade in the afternoon.

A resolution for the school district to avoid this doublesessioning and remain in operation as it has been was defeated by a similar vote. The district has been facing a shortage in classroom space for some time. Three bond issues for construction of a new middle school have been defeated at the polls.

The decision to hold morning and afternoon school was resolved to be the best use of the facilities and plan to reduce overcrowded conditions until something is done to give the schools more space.

SOME 30 citizens of the Teays Valley district were present at the three hour meeting last night to protest the system.
Their main objection was inconvenience for families, especially those with students in the three different school levels. An elementary school student would attend classes at regular hours, his high school aged brother or sister would be going to classes from 7 a.m.
to 1 p.m. and a seventh or eighth grade family member would have classes from 1 p.m.
to 6 p.m.

Gilligan Eyes Bond Issue

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Democratic administration of Gov. John J. Gilligan reportedly may soon ask Ohioans to approve a major new bond issue to finance state capital improvements.

State Finance Director Harold Hovey has disclosed that a review of state building needs is under way and that recommendations from the governor concerning a bond issue should be ready in about two weeks.

Hovey reportedly favors early action on a bond issue, despite concern over the affect it might have on administration proposals for tax increases.

Bonding was a popular means of financing new capital improvements during the administration of former Republican Gov. James A. Rhodes. Rhodes' bonding programs often drew criticism from Statehouse Democrats.

Hovey has estimated that state agencies will request more than $1 billion in new capital improvements, but said he doubts a bond issue will go that high.

Impoundment Of Voted Funds Challenged

WASHINGTON (AP) — Accusing the White House of overstepping the Constitution, a Senate panel is challenging President Nixon's refusal to spend $11.1 billion appropriated by Congress.

Sen. Sam J. Ervin's Judiciary subcommittee on separation of powers is examining the practice of impoundment under which the executive branch has withheld money earmarked mostly for highways and defense projects this fiscal year.

Ervin, D-N.C., said before today's hearing: "The growing practice of executive impoundment is another in a long line of developments in the operation of our national government that are eroding the powers of the legislative branch."

"Under the present impoundment practice," Ervin added, "the President has an item veto over acts of Congress. There is not a word in the Constitution giving such a power."

Ervin said neither he nor other members of Congress objects to the executive branch apportioning funds to avoid deficiencies or returning money to the Treasury when a project costs less to complete than was appropriated.

But to Ervin, "the use of the impounding practice to avoid or nullify congressional intent" is another matter.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal Tuition aid programs are pumping millions of dollars into private vocational schools whose educational and ethical standards get scant government surveillance.

An Associated Press study showed a vast majority of the schools provide adequate training for jobs in fields ranging from computer programming to earth moving. A small percentage don't, and officials say these few are responsible for the flow of complaints to federal agencies.

The AP study, based on federal files as well as interviews with educators and government officials, found:

—The phrase "Eligible for Veterans Benefits" and "Eligible for Federal Student Loan Guarantee Program" appear prominently in many vocational school advertisements, but such eligibility is no guarantee of adequate instruction or help in getting a job.

—Because the government guarantees payment of tuition, some schools recruit students they know aren't qualified and then charge high penalties when they drop out after a few weeks. Many students are unaware of what it will cost them if they drop out.

—The law setting up the student loan guarantee program left the Office of Education heavily dependent on non-government, industry-oriented accrediting agencies closely tied to the schools they are supposed to judge.

—Schools become eligible for veterans benefits on the basis of the uneven application of broadly written guidelines by state approval agencies.

—Vocational education salesmen often use tactics more familiar to used car lots than classrooms. Federal Trade Commission staff members say their power is extremely limited, and are pushing proposed tough steps to curb misleading sales practices.

More than a million Americans, many classed as low income, get government aid to take vocational courses. But the student who looks to the government for advice on where to get the best training for the money will be disappointed.

Man Arrested In Bank Holdup At Massillon

MASSILLON, Ohio (AP) — A 39-year-old Canton man was being held in Canton today for questioning in connection with the armed robbery Monday of the Perry Heights branch of the First National Bank of Massillon.

A Canton police spokesman said the $4,000 to $5,000 taken in the robbery was recovered when the man was arrested in Canton.

Held for questioning was Ronald Keith Mitchell.

Police said a city worker who saw the robber run from the bank provided a description of the car and its license number. A truck driver heard the car's description broadcast on a radio station, and the arrest was made by police and Stark County sheriff's deputies.

CINCINNATI (AP) — A probe of alleged traffic ticket fixing in Cincinnati indicated the city may be out $750,000 in fines and a spokesman for State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson said the investigation will probably be extended to other Ohio cities.

The Cincinnati Enquirer reported this morning that the number of tickets fixed could go as high as 90,000, according to John A. Blum, director of the auditor's Bureau of Inspection.

Blum said the Cincinnati investigation will take five to six months noting that "the traffic department has not been audited for 25 years."

At the same time he said field auditors around the state have been alerted to check traffic situations in their areas and to follow up with "periodic random checks of tickets issued and fines received."

In Cincinnati, newly appointed Police Chief Carl Goodwin said he welcomed the audit.

"This means the auditor's office will be checking out approximately 300,000 traffic tickets," the chief said. "I welcome the opportunity to clear this thing up and will have a statement once a report is made."

The Cincinnati Enquirer recently printed a series of articles in which it said some city officials, including a judge, police and court officials were exempted from paying traffic fines.

Ferguson said he had sent an examiner to Cincinnati Friday to begin a preliminary investigation.

He said the probe was sparked by a letter he received from Richard L. Kiley, a teacher at Cincinnati Courter Tech High School and an unsuccessful Democratic candidate for the Legislature last year.

Kiley said in the letter the police force was wrongly implicated by the articles and asked Ferguson to audit the city traffic department.

Teays Valley Plans Split Sessions During 1971-72

A decision of the Teays Valley Board of Education to hold double sessions in their high school building next year was debated at the regular board meeting last night.

The school board voted four to one last week to arrange special scheduling to hold high school classes in the morning at TVHS and seventh and eighth grade in the afternoon.

A resolution for the school district to avoid this double-sessioning and remain in operation as it has been was defeated by a similar vote. The district has been facing a shortage in classroom space for some time. Three bond issues for construction of a new middle school have been defeated at the polls.

The decision to hold morning and afternoon school was resolved to be the best use of the facilities and plan to reduce overcrowded conditions until something is done to give the schools more space.

SOME 30 citizens of the Teays Valley district were present at the three hour meeting last night to protest the system. Their main objection was inconvenience for families, especially those with students in the three different school levels. An elementary school student would attend classes at regular hours, his high school aged brother or sister would be going to classes from 7 a.m. to 1 p.m. and a seventh or eighth grade family member would have classes from 1 p.m. to 6 p.m.

Since the school district covers such a wide area, some students could be picked up or delivered home as much as one hour before or after classes.

Although the decision has been made, the board voted to create a committee to get area citizens' response to the split session arrangement or the alternatives which were considered by the board before passing the resolution. Members will be Richard Foreman, chairman; Hewitt Harbourn and school board representatives, William Hinkle, Harold Peters and William Winter.

A second committee to determine long-range recommendations was approved. These people will study the attitude of citizens concerning three building programs — one for a new middle school, building additional rooms on present school structures or building a new elementary school.

Members of this committee, working under Dr. Jack Warner, are William Winter, William Hinkle, Lehman Stiles and Gene Van Pelt.

Teays Valley's board also adopted a new calendar for the 1971-72 school year. Under the calendar, school will dismiss May 26 due to a shortened Christmas vacation.

Breakthrough In Hepatitis Fight Seen

NEW YORK (AP) — A New York University scientist reported today the successful immunization of humans against the most serious form of hepatitis, a major step toward the development of a vaccine.

If a vaccine is developed, perhaps within five to nine years, the disease—serum hepatitis—could be controlled in much the same way that polio vaccine has virtually eradicated polio in this country.

The report came from Dr. Saul Krugman, chairman of the pediatrics department of the New York University Medical Center.

"We do not yet have an effective vaccine," Krugman said in an interview, "but the door is being pushed ajar."

Hepatitis is a virus-caused disease, attacking the liver and causing jaundice, nausea, weakness and other symptoms.

Generally, there are two kinds of hepatitis, serum and infectious. Serum hepatitis can be transmitted in blood transfusions or from contaminated needles. Infectious hepatitis is generally spread through infected food or water or person-to-person.

But these traditional distinctions are now being found to overlap, with some serum hepatitis spreading through direct or indirect contact. Serum hepatitis is usually more serious, especially in adults. It can be fatal.

Krugman said his research team used a serum made from the serum hepatitis strain of virus, called MS2 virus, and mixed it with distilled water, then boiled the solution for one minute.

THE three hour meeting last night was held mainly for discussion on the new class procedure. Other business was handled by the board in their March 15 special session.

At this meeting, members accepted the bid price of the Nu-Sash Co. to replace windows of the west elevation of Scioto School, Pittsburgh Plate Glass was awarded a contract to replace the door in the west and south entrances.

Established was a new board policy for mandatory retirement of both professional and non-professional employees at the end of their contract term following their 70th birthday.

Teays Valley Board members meeting last night with Superintendent Benis Lutz were: Everett Beers, Harold Peters, William Hinkle, William Winter and Jack Warner.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A reporter for the Columbus Citizen Journal, Michael Lorz, has been named public information officer of the Ohio Department of Urban Affairs.

Lorz was graduated from Ohio State University in 1967. His appointment was announced Monday by Urban Affairs Director Bruce L. Newman.

Gilligan Eyes Bond Issue

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Democratic administration of Gov. John J. Gilligan reportedly may soon ask Ohioans to approve a major new bond issue to finance state capital improvements.

State Finance Director Harold Hovey has disclosed that a review of state building needs under way and that recommendations from the governor concerning a bond issue should be ready in about two weeks.

Hovey reportedly favors early action on a bond issue, despite concern over the affect it might have on administration proposals for tax increases.

Bonding was a popular means of financing new capital improvements during the administration of former Republican Gov. James A. Rhodes. Rhodes' bonding programs often drew criticism from Statehouse Democrats.

Hovey has estimated that state agencies will request more than $1 billion in new capital improvements, but said he doubts a bond issue will go that high.

General Assembly Debate Heats Up Over Gilligan Budget

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The 109th General Assembly, splitless during its first ten weeks, seems to have found a battle issue in Democratic Gov. John J. Gilligan's giant $9.1 billion two-year budget.

At 10 a.m. today, the House Finance Appropriations Committee under Rep. Lloyd G. Kerns, R-16 Richwood, will resume its grilling of State Finance Director Harold A. Hovey on budget specifics.

Kerns is on record as opposing the Gilligan tax package. That package includes an estimates $1.6 billion in new state income, most from a graduated income tax on individual and corporate profits.

Tonight, the Senate Finance Committee takes up where the House left off, with Hovey again the principal witness.

Sen. Robert R. Shaw, R-16 Columbus, heads the Senate committee. He, like Kerns, is a fiscal conservative.

Meanwhile, on the floor of both houses informal, but noisy, discussions abound on the budget issue.

Support for and opposition to the Gilligan tax plan are not confined to party lines. Few, however, think the measure will be passed in original form.

The deadline for some sort of compromise is June 30, for day money runs out to pay for state services.

In mini-session Monday night, the House received eleven bills for consideration.

Included was one to extend to all the state, county, township and municipal employees unemployment compensation benefits.

The measure, sponsored by

Rep. Larry D. Smith, D-42 Cleveland, would require the state to meet all costs of claims by state employees for benefits and dependents' allowances.

Excluded from coverage under the bill are elected and appointed officials, consultants, and persons who work for educational institutions supported "substantially" by public funds.

Notable by its absence was the governor's "Ohio Plan," a proposal to require students at state-supported colleges and universities to pay back state subsidies for their education.

At least one major television network Monday speculated the bill would be introduced during the evening session.

The governor's office, however, has said it has not yet lined up sponsors for the bill. The measure may not be presented before the end of the week, sources said.

The governor has said the state would save $5 billion over the next 30 years if the plan is adopted.

The pay-back plan has received national attention since it was unveiled last week.

Other bills introduced into the House would:

—Delete from present state law the right of a jury, hearing a case involving the slaying of a policeman, to recommend mercy.

—Hike minimum benefits under the Policemen and Firemen's Disability and Pension Fund from the present $1,650 to $3,300.

Both houses resume floor sessions today, with the House convening at 11 a. m. and the Senate at 1:30 p.m.

Ecuador Is Program Topic At Kiwanis

An interesting program on the people of Guayaquil Ecuador was presented to Circleville Kiwanians Monday night by Larry Moate, an Australian student of Josephinum Seminary, Columbus. Scenes of the country were also viewed on slides used in the presentation by Moate and fellow student, Bob Kill.

The program and speaker was of particular, personal interest to club members for Kiwanis clubs and "Medical Missions" of New York contributed money to help establish a medical clinic in Guayaquil Ecuador. The project was recognized last summer with assistance of Moate who has spent the past two summers working in slum areas of Guayaquil.

He and the people of the area built a clinic of eight rooms to provide medical assistance for 35,000 people in the parish. One Italian doctor and a few local nurses staff the clinic.

Monday night was Ladies' Night at Kiwanis. They too, were able to see and enjoy the slides of Moate's travels in Ecuador, work on the clinic, the Inca ruins, and life with the Hebro Indians with whom Moate stayed, observing their strange customs.

The peoples of the city were described by Moate as being "undernourished and impoverished and in dire need of our help." Following his ordination as a priest in April, the seminarian will return to his native Australia for one year before returning to Ecuador where he plans to live with the people.

Kiwanis members, as a club, pledged to Moate, help to the people of Guayaquil as the club could provide it and wished the student, "God speed".

A guest Monday night, in addition to the ladies, was Arthur Justice of Johnson City, Tenn. Kiwanis Club.

A booklet provided by the U.S. Marine Corps, "Our Flag", was distributed to all club members by the public relations committee and plans were noted to further distribute the pamphlet throughout the community.

Jim Shea, president, presided at the weekly meet. Program chairman was Fred Bower.

A Red Cross Volunteer served coffee and doughnuts, donated by Lindsey Bakery, to the registrants prior to their departure from Circleville. Each man was also presented a gift packet provided by Red Cross and Sertoma Club.

Martha Ferguson, executive secretary of local Selective Service Board 98, reported no registrants are required to report for induction in April. Six will report for physicals.

The county draft quota thus far in 1971 has been filled by using eligible registrants through number 100 of the draft lottery.

Annexation Hearing Held By Solons

Pickaway County Commissioners Monday held a hearing on the annexation to the city of approximately 164 acres southeast of Circleville.

The only person attending the hearing was Sheldon Winner, the principal property holder involved. Of the 13 interested landowners of the area, 12 signed the petition for annexation.

Commission Chairman Dick T. Tootle said a decision on whether or not to approve the petition for annexation would be announced later.

He noted the announcement on the Moats-Isaac area petition for annexation would probably be made at the same time, indicating the decision would take about two weeks. The areas are adjacent.

In other action Monday, bids for a hydraulic excavator submitted by Carr Equipment Co., and Marks Tractor Co., were opened, but not awarded, pending a review of the bids by County Engineer Henry McCrady.

Commissioner Tootle announced the board had been requested to appoint 12 delegates to the Ohio Governor's Conference on Aging scheduled May 5 and 6.

Commissioners Wayne Hines and Charles Morris were present at Monday's meeting.

Two Injured In Little Walnut Crash

Two Tennessee motorists received injuries in an unusual accident investigated at 7:30 this morning by the Highway Patrol.

Usley C. DePew, 49, of Kingsport, Tenn., was headed south on Route 23 just past the Patrol Post when the accident occurred. She received minor injuries and was treated at Berger Hospital. Her husband, Robert T. DePew, 60, was given emergency treatment for serious facial cuts and transferred to a Columbus hospital.

The Little Walnut Bridge was sheathed under ice this morning, when Mrs. DePew came out of the curve and onto the bridge. Her car hit the solid ice and spun out of control and struck the guard rail. The momentum of the car carried it up onto the top of the rail and flying off the end into a ditch embankment.

The condition of the roadways and position of the vehicle made it extremely difficult for patrolmen and wrecker crews to clear the wreck debris.

Ecuador Is Program Topic At Kiwanis

An interesting program on the people of Guayaquil, Ecuador was presented to Circleville Kiwanians Monday night by Larry Moate, an Australian student of Josephinum Seminary, Columbus. Scenes of the country were also viewed on slides used in the presentation by Moate and fellow student, Bob Kill.

The program and speaker was of particular, personal interest to club members for Kiwanis clubs and "Medical Missions" of New York contributed money to help establish a medical clinic in Guayaquil, Ecuador. The project was recognized last summer with assistance of Moate who has spent the past two summers working in slum areas of Guayaquil.

He and the people of the area built a clinic of eight rooms to provide medical assistance for 35,000 people in the parish. One Italian doctor and a few local nurses staff the clinic.

Monday night was Ladies' Night at Kiwanis. They too, were able to see and enjoy the slides of Moate's travels in Ecuador, work on the clinic, the Inca ruins, and life with the Hebro Indians with whom Moate stayed, observing their strange customs.

The peoples of the city were described by Moate as being "undernourished and impoverished and in dire need of our help". Following his ordination as a priest in April, the seminarian will return to his native Australia for one year before returning to Ecuador where he plans to live with the people.

Kiwanis members, as a club, pledged to Moate, help to the people of Guayaquil as the club could provide it and wished the student "God speed".

A guest Monday night, in addition to the ladies, was Arthur Justice of Johnson City, Tenn. Kiwanis Club.

A booklet provided by the U.S. Marine Corps, "Our Flag", was distributed to all club members by the public relations committee and plans were noted to further distribute the pamphlet throughout the community.

Jim Shea, president, presided at the weekly meet. Program chairman was Fred Bower.

Three registrants of the Pickaway County Selective Service Board reported Friday to Ft. Hayes Induction Center, Columbus, for duty with the armed forces. They are Roger Pert, Route 2, Williamsport; Carl Spung, Tarlton and Kevin Kunkle, Route 4.

A Red Cross Volunteer served coffee and doughnuts, donated by Lindsey Bakery to the registrants prior to their departure from Circleville. Each man was also presented a gift packet provided by Red Cross and Sertoma Club.

Martha Ferguson, executive secretary of local Selective Service Board 98, reported no registrants are required to report for induction in April. Six will report for physicals.

The county draft quota thus far in 1971 has been filled by using eligible registrants through number 100 of the draft lottery.

Annexation Hearing Held By Solons

Pickaway County Commissioners Monday held a hearing on the annexation to the city of approximately 164 acres southeast of Circleville.

The only person attending the hearing was Sheldon Winner, the principal property holder involved. Of the 13 interested landowners of the area, 12 signed the petition for annexation.

Commission Chairman Dick T. Tootle said a decision on whether or not to approve the petition for annexation would be announced later.

He noted the annexation on the Moats-Isaac area petition for annexation would probably be made at the same time, indicating the decision would take about two weeks. The areas are adjacent.

In other action Monday, bids for a hydraulic excavator submitted by Carr Equipment Co., and Marks Tractor Co., were opened, but not awarded, pending a review of the bids by County Engineer Henry McCrady.

Commissioner Tootle announced the board had been requested to appoint 12 delegates to the Ohio Governor's Conference on Aging scheduled May 5 and 6. Commissioners Wayne Hines and Charles Morris were present at Monday's meeting.

Mathias Avoids 'Dump Nixon' Talk

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Charles McC. Mathias, while continuing the tightrope existence of a liberal Republican in Richard Nixon's Washington, says he has no idea of taking part in a "dump Nixon" drive next year.

"I am not involved with any group planning such a move," Mathias said in an interview. "And at this point," he said, "I do not plan to be involved with any such group."

Mathias, a first-term Marylander, is one of the half dozen most liberal Republicans in the Senate and has sought continually to slash Nixon's war powers by forcing total U.S. withdrawal from Southeast Asia this year.

Rep. Paul McCloskey, R-Calif., early this month listed Mathias as one of the antiwar Republicans better known and better qualified than himself to

Teller Vote In Trouble?

WASHINGTON (AP) — The new system of recording votes in the House is working so well its supporters express fear guardians of the old order may try to scuttle it.

The new method, which played a major part in the startling House vote to cut off funds for the supersonic transport plane, is the key reform put over last year by younger members.

They hoped to achieve two things: Bring more members to the floor to vote on amendments, and make them publicly responsible for their positions. Until this year members were counted for or against amendments but not recorded by name.

The 217-204 teller vote by which the House adopted an amendment deleting the SST funds would appear convincing proof the reformers' hopes have been realized.

But because the vote also represented a stinging defeat for the Democratic and Republican leadership in the House, the administration and such powerful special interests as the aerospace industry and organized labor, the reformers are uneasy.

Former Sen. Charles Goodell, R-N.Y., who was defeated last fall for re-election when his Conservative opponent got White House help, also has promised to help an anti-Nixon move unless Vietnam policy is changed.

"For goodness sake don't make me the new neo-Charlie," Mathias said in mock fear. And since he is not up for re-election until 1974, he probably has little to fear in terms of possible immediate White House recrimination.

But the 48-year-old, soft-spoken, easy going senator's delicate balancing act still was threatened by that gust of presidential talk.

Mathias has bent over backwards to maintain at least somewhat amicable relations with the White House and his own Maryland Republicans while joining the liberal Senate bloc on many issues.

His support of quick withdrawal legislation is always couched in terms describing

Section Of Ohio-Erie Canal Scheduled For Rebuilding

They're going to start rebuilding a section of the historic Ohio-Erie Canal in Coshocton County this month.

And by the time the tourist season opens this coming summer, persons will be able to take a ride on a replica of those picturesque old mule-drawn canal boats which used to haul cargo and passengers between Cleveland and Portsmouth back in the early 1800's.

The City of Coshocton recently awarded contracts to restore a mile-long section of the old canal reaching from the edge of Coshocton Lake Park to the old Mudport Basin.

These two bodies of water are man-made lakes, created to feed the old canal and maintain a four-foot depth of water for the 70-foot freighters and packets which moved the people and goods (as well as the spare mules).

James Dally, manager of the Roscoe Village Restoration project, which is tied with the restoration of the canal, explains that "there were three such basins in the system here — known as upper, lower and middle."

"They were a part of the lock system which was used to lift the boats up to the level of an aqueduct which carried them across the swift-flowing waters of the Walhonding River."

A replica of the old canal boat also is nearing completion. Dally said and will be ready for carrying customers by the time the Coshocton Canal Days

Festival is held this coming August 20, 21 and 22.

The original canal was carved out of Ohio by pick and shovel. "And the work was so difficult that it's said that there's a dead Irishman for every one of the 309 miles of waterway from Cleveland to Portsmouth," Dally noted.

The work won't be so hazardous this time, however. Power shovels will sweep away the silt and underbrush and the whole project, including restoration of the mules' towpath is slated to be completed within 30 days.

Meantime, work also is proceeding on the restoration of Roscoe, once a thriving port city on the old canal which since has become a part of the City of Coshocton.

Five buildings have been restored and 20 more planned. Shops are open offering antiques, gifts, sweets and baked goods, and an old type general store will open soon as will a furnished home of the canal period.

The Old Warehouse, where canal boats once unloaded their wares, now contains a restaurant reflecting the rugged atmosphere of the canal days.

Mathias Avoids 'Dump Nixon' Talk

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Charles McC. Mathias, while continuing the tightrope existence of a liberal Republican in Richard Nixon's Washington, says he has no idea of taking part in a "dump Nixon" drive next year.

"I am not involved with any group planning such a move," Mathias said in an interview. "And at this point," he said, "I do not plan to be involved with any such group."

Mathias, a first-term Marylander, is one of the half dozen most liberal Republicans in the Senate and has sought continually to slash Nixon's war powers by forcing total U.S. withdrawal from Southeast Asia this year.

Rep. Paul McCloskey, R-Calif., early this month listed Mathias as one of the antiwar Republicans better known and better qualified than himself to challenge Nixon on the war by facing the President in the primaries.

Former Sen. Charles Goodell, R-N.Y., who was defeated last fall for re-election when his Conservative opponent got White House help, also has promised to help an anti-Nixon move unless Vietnam policy is changed.

"For goodness sake don't make me the new neo-Charlie," Mathias said in mock fear. And since he is not up for re-election until 1974, he probably has little to fear in terms of possible immediate White House recrimination.

But the 48-year-old, soft-spoken, easy going senator's delicate balancing act still was threatened by that gust of presidential talk.

Mathias has bent over backwards to maintain at least somewhat amicable relations with the White House and his own Maryland Republicans while joining the liberal Senate bloc on many issues.

His support of quick withdrawal legislation is always couched in terms describing

Nixon as having performed the "monumental accomplishment" of withdrawing 200,000 American troops from Vietnam.

During the past two years, Mathias supported the President's position just 53 per cent of the time, disagreed 25 per cent of the time and did not vote on the other issues taken into account.

By comparison, Goodell had a 42 per cent support score and 31 per cent disagreement mark.

French Election Brings Little Power Change

PARIS (AP) — Government parties won a majority on the Paris municipal council and made some progress in the other runoff municipal elections Sunday, but there were no radical shifts in French political preferences.

Stability was the keynote. Only 30 of the 193 cities of more than 30,000 population switched parties.

The government parties gained eight, the left picked up seven and centrists opposed to the government took two. Other changes were moves within these big groupings.

Communists and Socialists after two decades of fighting each other, pulled closer together and had some gains to show for it. But they also lost some councils where they could not compose their differences.

Section Of Ohio-Erie Canal Scheduled For Rebuilding

They're going to start rebuilding a section of the historic Ohio-Erie Canal in Coshocton County this month.

And by the time the tourist season opens this coming summer, persons will be able to take a ride on a replica of those picturesque old mule-drawn canal boats which used to haul cargo and passengers between Cleveland and Portsmouth back in the early 1800's.

The City of Coshocton recently awarded contracts to restore a mile-long section of the old canal reaching from the edge of Coshocton Lake Park to the old Mudport Basin.

These two bodies of water are man-made lakes, created to feed the old canal and maintain a four-foot depth of water for the 70-foot freighters and packets which moved the people and goods (as well as the spare mules).

James Dally, manager of the Roscoe Village Restoration project, which is tied with the restoration of the canal, explains that "there were three such basins in the system here — known as upper, lower and middle."

"They were a part of the lock system which was used to lift the boats up to the level of an aqueduct which carried them across the swift-flowing waters of the Walhonding River."

A replica of the old canal boat also is nearing completion, Dally said and will be ready for carrying customers by the time the Coshocton Canal Days

Festival is held this coming August 20, 21 and 22.

The original canal was carved out of Ohio by pick and shovel. "And the work was so difficult that it's said that there's a dead Irishman for every one of the 309 miles of waterway from Cleveland to Portsmouth," Dally noted.

The work won't be so hazardous this time, however. Power shovels will sweep away the silt and underbrush and the whole project, including restoration of the mules' towpath is slated to be completed within 30 days.

Meantime, work also is proceeding on the restoration of Roscoe, once a thriving port city on the old canal which since has become a part of the City of Coshocton.

Five buildings have been restored and 20 more planned. Shops are open offering antiques, gifts, sweets and baked goods, and an old type general store will open soon as will a furnished home of the canal period.

The Old Warehouse, where canal boats once unloaded their wares, now contains a restaurant reflecting the rugged atmosphere of the canal days.

Teller Vote In Trouble?

WASHINGTON (AP) — The new system of recording votes in the House is working so well its supporters express fear guardians of the old order may try to scuttle it.

The new method, which played a major part in the startling House vote to cut off funds for the supersonic transport plane, is the key reform put over last year by younger members.

They hoped to achieve two things: Bring more members to the floor to vote on amendments, and make them publicly responsible for their positions. Until this year members were counted for or against amendments but not recorded by name.

The 217-204 teller vote by which the House adopted an amendment deleting the SST funds would appear convincing proof the reformers' hopes have been realized.

But because the vote also represented a stinging defeat for the Democratic and Republican leadership in the House, the administration and such powerful special interests as the aerospace industry and organized labor, the reformers are uneasy.

Police Arrest 800 Protesters

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rabbi Meir Kahane, militant leader of the Jewish Defense League, told his followers simply: "When the papers say tomorrow that 5,000 Jews were arrested, next week we'll have 5,000 more."

Shortly after his declaration, Kahane became the first of some 800 protesters to be peacefully led away by Washington police Sunday for sitting in a busy intersection in the nation's capital.

Some 2,500 persons demonstrated Sunday to protest Soviet treatment of Jews in Russia.

Easy Way Out

If that order from the federal Department of Transportation requiring auto makers to install a front-seat passive-restraint safety system on their 1974 models seems familiar, it is. It's the umpteenth such edict, with only the date being revised.

Originally, word from Washington was that the passive-restraint safety systems might be required on 1971 models. Then it was more or less definite for the 1972s. Later the deadline was Jan. 1, 1973, then the following July 1 and now Aug. 15 of that year for front-seat devices and Aug. 15, 1975, for all seat positions in a car.

Not only the date has been flexible. So have been the specifications. The most widely discussed restraining device is the gas-actuated air bag. But some critics have raised questions about the deafening, possibly hurtful, noise when the explosion is triggered. Also about the sudden spurt in air pressure inside the car, and about the possibility the air bag might be accidentally activated when no collision is imminent.

Those questions are being explored, and an $11-million experimental program is expected to find the answers, or at least some of them, within the next few years. In the meantime, Washington remains open-minded.

Auto makers don't have to install air bags. Alternatively, they can meet the 1973 deadline by using crash-deployed nets or blankets, extensive cushioning or any other method calculated to prevent injury in head-on collisions at 30 miles an hour.

The choice of device will be up to the auto maker, a decision one federal official describes as promoting local initiative and competition. Well, maybe.

But it sounds suspiciously as if Washington isn't sure any of the devices are worth the fuss.

One Final Dip

A friendly little reminder from the Internal Revenue Service in Washington points up that some taxpayers who are accustomed to receiving a refund when they file their annual returns may be disappointed this year. And others may be pleasantly surprised to find their refunds larger than expected.

It is all the fault of the Tax Reform Act of 1969, says IRS. So many changes were compressed into such a short period of time that withholding tables may not be completely accurate, so far as individuals with special situations are concerned.

The result, says IRS, is that while most taxpayers will continue to get refunds as usual, millions may find it necessary to send checks with their final returns. The cynic will note that even when tax laws are reformed, the end result works out about the same — one final dip in the pocket.

Welfare

By JEFFERY HART

Governor Nelson Rockefeller, I was once told, by a man holding even higher political office than he, never makes a serious political move without commissioning the best public opinion polls that money can buy.

Item: In his most recent press interview, President Nixon observed that Vietnam would not, most definitely would not, be the decisive issue in 1972, and he expressed advance commiseration for those politicians who have begun to run on that issue.

Second Item: Nelson Rockefeller, so the wild rumor runs, recently remarked in conversation that Governor Ronald Reagan is the only man around who "knows a thing about welfare." This seemed to me so astonishing a remark, considering the source, that I checked it out with several informants. It appears that he said it.

Which makes it all the more interesting that both Rockefeller and Reagan have come out with more or less congruent welfare reform plans.

Reagan: Able-bodied welfare recipients should be required to seek jobs or help in public works efforts; requirements should be greatly tightened to eliminate cheaters; the numerous loopholes should be closed in the greatest drain of all, the Aid to Dependent Children.

These suggestions from the California Governor, and from the Republican right, were naturally denounced as fascism and as a step in the direction of slave labor. But then we heard from the Republican liberals, from, specifically, Nelson Rockefeller. His proposal was slightly to the right of Reagan's.

Rockefeller began by proposing that an existing state law cutting off benefits to able-bodied recipients who refuse to work be strictly enforced; until now it has been ignored. Rocky would set up an Environment Conservation Corps to provide jobs for welfare recipients.

More drastically, Rocky sought to evade the Supreme Court's invalidation of residence requirements for welfare recipients by prohibiting out-of-staters who come to New York from being eligible for welfare if adequate housing, schools and hospitals are not available in the city they move to.

Even the most liberal

Republican of all, Mayor John Lindsay, who is not known as an aficionado of concentration camps, proposed that the old military barracks at bleak Floyd Bennett Field be used to house New York City welfare recipients for whom housing is not available.

There is an enormous convergence here politically. Even the New York Times, in an editorial entitled Welfare's Bankruptcy, admits that "The administration of the welfare system has been outrageously lax. Can it be that absolutely no ineligible applicant appeared at some intake centers during an entire month? This is what the records show."

Some enterprising reporting, as by Thomas C. Gallagher of the Boston Herald Traveler, suggests that "lax" may be the understatement of the year. Gallagher has found that the welfare bureaucracy contains a substantial number of super-liberals who consciously desire to "bankrupt the system."

In California, in Massachusetts, in New York the welfare rolls expand like some kind of social carcinoma, move up from 10 per cent to 15, and from 15 still further. Item: Governor Reagan explicitly presented his welfare proposals as a "pilot program" for the whole country. Chairman Russell Long of the Senate Finance Committee "expressed a keen interest" in it. Twenty-four governors have signed a letter endorsing it. Neither Rockefeller nor Reagan has ever put aside his national ambitions, and President Nixon's Family Assistance Plan is in deep trouble in Congress.

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

From the day we were married, two years ago, my husband developed temper tantrums.

My family thinks he is a schizophrenic. Could such a condition develop almost overnight?

Mrs. O.T., Pa. Dear Mrs. T.: The fact that your family labels your husband a "schizophrenic" is, of course, out of concern for you, but without medical validity.

Unfortunately, this descriptive term is used loosely by too many people who are not qualified and who have no understanding of its import.

Certainly, you cannot base your marriage on such speculation. Professional medical and psychological opinion is the only way to make such a diagnosis.

I have repeatedly said that it is audacious to use words like "paranoid" and "schizophrenic" simply to describe someone whose behavior is different, or not acceptable.

These two complex conditions need the most discerning investigation by highly trained specialists.

Schizophrenia is a tragic mental disorder, both for the patient and those around him. It once was considered a pure psychological problem. Recent studies, however, indicate that genetic factors play a role in it, and that chemical imbalance in the bloodstream may be an important cause.

More and more, research and treatment are based on chemical factors, in conjunction with psychotherapy.

The American Schizophrenia Foundation in New York City has played an important role in breaking down the "family shame" associated with this illness of the mind.

The foundation's campaigns are directed at bringing all mental illnesses out into the open, where they can be attacked with no more social stigma than any physical disease.

Now, let's talk about your husband. Temper tantrums may be caused by a variety of factors. His personal insecurity and feelings of inadequacy may call forth such a social behavior.

One must always question the provocation given to him for these outbursts. Sometimes, those who provoke them must accept part of the responsibility.

To be sure that your marriage is not destroyed by real or imaginary mental illness, discuss this problem openly

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

The bee is nature's hardest working philanthropist. It has to visit 2,000 flowers to make a single tablespoonful of honey.

Who was the world's most prolific inventor? Probably Thomas A. Edison rates this honor. He has 1,093 patents credited to his name.

Education, like almost everything else, is getting more expensive. The expenditure per pupil in America has more than tripled in less than 20 years. It rose from a national average of $209 in 1949-50 to $659 in 1967-68.

Does it shock you to learn that some 60,000 persons a year are bitten by rats in the United States? One of the reasons it is so difficult to reduce the rat population—estimated at 100 million—is that a female can also eat or destroy from $5 to $10 worth of food in its brief lifetime.

When it came to giving equal rights to women, New Jersey was something of an Indian giver. It gave women the right to vote in 1776, but about 30 years later passed laws taking it away again.

WASHINGTON MEMO

By Congressman CHALMERS P. WYLIE
15th District of Ohio

Last week was a particularly eventful week from a legislative standpoint. Much has been written and said about the ten per cent increase in social security benefits which was signed into law by President Nixon on Wednesday, thus increasing benefits to 26 million Americans retroactive to Jan. 1.

On Thursday, the House disapproved, by a narrow vote, additional funds to develop a prototype Supersonic Transport. Final action in the House on a constitutional amendment which, if approved by 33 states, would allow the 18-year-old to vote in state and local, as well as federal elections, was held over until next week.

The Senate passed a bill establishing the Joint Committee on the Environment designed to provide a forum whereby Congress can review and analyze the relationship of environmental issues. The bill has already cleared the House Public Works Committee and will be on the House Floor for consideration next week.

So, much far-reaching registration was considered by Congress last week.

Sometime within the next week or two the House will consider a proposal to extend the present draft for two years. Hearings are being conducted by the House Armed Services Committee on the President's plan for an all volunteer army.

Committee Chairman F. Edward Hebert (D-Louisiana) said that the Committee was in favor of a zero draft and for an all volunteer army but, that in the present situation, an extension of the existing Selective Service Act was the only feasible way to provide the necessary personnel for the Armed Forces.

It is my judgment that the all volunteer army is an idea whose time has arrived. At the same time, I recognize the fact that we cannot change from the present system to an all volunteer army overnight.

There must be an orderly changeover. Since the founding of the Republic, a primary constitutional function of the United States has been to provide for the common defense. The Armed Forces have played an important role in insuring the nation's security. There is no doubt that the draft is becoming increasingly un-

Publication of the 1971 edition of "Camping in the National Park System" was announced recently by Secretary of the Interior, Rogers C. B. Morton. The new directory lists nearly 28,000 campsites at 539 campgrounds in 83 areas of the National Park Service System. The booklet specifies the camping season for each area, duration of stay permitted and facilities provided by the National Park Service or park concessioners. Each area is numbered and keyed to a map in the directory.

Campsites are available on a first-come, first-serve basis and with no reservations accepted. Designated group campsites, however, may be reserved for schools, organizations and other large parties.

"Camping in the National Park System" can be obtained by sending a letter to my office, 1331 Longworth Building, Washington, D. C. 20515.

Mrs. O.T., Pa.
Dear Mrs. T.: The fact that your family labels your husband a "schizophrenic" is, of course, out of concern for you, but without medical validity.

Unfortunately, this descriptive term is used loosely by too many people who are not qualified and who have no understanding of its import. Certainly, you cannot base your marriage on such speculation. Professional medical and psychological opinion is the only way to make such a diagnosis.

I have repeatedly said that it is audacious to use words like "paranoid" and "schizophrenic" simply to describe someone whose behavior is different, or not acceptable.

These two complex conditions need the most discerning investigation by highly trained specialists.

Schizophrenia is a tragic mental disorder, both for the patient and those around him. It once was considered a pure psychological problem. Recent studies, however, indicate that genetic factors play a role in it, and that chemical imbalance in the bloodstream may be an important cause.

More and more, research and treatment are based on chemical factors, in conjunction with psychotherapy.

The American Schizophrenia Foundation in New York City has played an important role in breaking down the "family shame" associated with this illness of the mind.

The foundation's campaigns are directed at bringing all mental illnesses out into the open, where they can be attacked with no more social stigma than any physical disease.

Now, let's talk about your husband. Temper tantrums may be caused by a variety of factors. His personal insecurity and feelings of inadequacy may call forth such a social behavior.

One must always question the provocation given to him for these outbursts. Sometimes, those who provoke them must accept part of the responsibility.

To be sure that your marriage is not destroyed by real or imaginary mental illness, discuss this problem openly,

Does it shock you to learn that some 60,000 persons a year are bitten by rats in the United States? One of the reasons it is so difficult to reduce the rat population—estimated at 100 million—is that a female can also eat or destroy from $5 to $10 worth of food in its brief lifetime.

WASHINGTON MEMO

By Congressman CHALMERS P. WYLIE
15th District of Ohio

Last week was a particularly eventful week from a legislative standpoint. Much has been written and said about the ten per cent increase in social security benefits which was signed into law by President Nixon on Wednesday, thus increasing benefits to 26 million Americans retroactive to Jan. 1.

On Thursday, the House disapproved, by a narrow vote, additional funds to develop a prototype Supersonic Transport. Final action in the House on a constitutional amendment which, if approved by 33 states, would allow the 18-year-old to vote in state and local, as well as federal elections, was held over until next week.

The Senate passed a bill establishing the Joint Committee on the Environment designed to provide a forum whereby Congress can review and analyze the relationship of environmental issues. The bill has already cleared the House Public Works Committee and will be on the House Floor for consideration next week.

So, much far-reaching registration was considered by Congress last week.

Sometime within the next week or two the House will consider a proposal to extend the present draft for two years. Hearings are being conducted by the House Armed Services Committee on the President's plan for an all volunteer army.

Committee Chairman F. Edward Hebert (D-Louisiana) said that the Committee was in favor of a zero draft and for an all volunteer army but, in the present situation, an extension of the existing Selective Service Act was the only feasible way to provide the necessary personnel for the Armed Forces.

It is my judgment that the all volunteer army is an idea whose time has arrived. At the same time, I recognize the fact that we cannot change from the present system to an all volunteer army overnight.

There must be an orderly changeover. Since the founding of the Republic, a primary constitutional function of the United States has been to provide for the common defense. The Armed Forces have played an important role in insuring the nation's security. There is no doubt that the draft is becoming increasingly un-

Publication of the 1971 edition of "Camping in the National Park System" was announced recently by Secretary of the Interior, Rogers C. B. Morton. The new directory lists nearly 28,000 campsites at 539 campgrounds in 83 areas of the National Park Service System. The booklet specifies the camping season for each area, duration of stay permitted and facilities provided by the National Park Service or park concessioners. Each area is numbered and keyed to a map in the directory.

Campsites are available on a first-come, first-serve basis and with no reservations accepted. Designated group campsites, however, may be reserved for schools, organizations and other large parties.

"Camping in the National Park System" can be obtained by sending a letter to my office 1331 Longworth Building Washington, D. C. 20515.

Liquor Agency Sets Closeout Of Decanters

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Liquor Department is holding a cut-rate, close-out sale on 79 kinds of liquor that come in decorative decanters.

The sale is part of a department effort to get its inventory down to the state—required $30 million by June 30. Director Richard Guggenheim has said the fancy decanters don't sell and he wants them off the shelves.

The inventory of pretty—and expensive—figurines that are on sale now includes a Canadian Mountie, slashed to $11.38, a Scottish Mallard reduced to $16.02 and a Liberty Bell, cut back from $15.21 to $11.05.

Guggenheim said there may also be shortages in some major brands in the regular bottles while the department is trimming its stock.

A natural nutrient trap that catches and holds most of the organic material carried into it by the surrounding rivers, Lake Erie's western basin has been filling in for centuries.

The girls will be accompanied by Mrs. Karen Patterson and Mrs. Jane Vance, the FHA advisors, and Miss Barb Garen, student teacher.

At the convention, the girls will have a chance to make many new friends and receive new ideas for the chapter from the other delegates. Marilyn and Becky also will take part in the election of the new state officers.

The convention is also a time

Auditions Held For 'Matchmaker'

Members of the 1971 Senior Class were busy Mar. 9-12 trying out for various parts in the play, "The Matchmaker," which will be presented on Apr. 23 and 24.

The story centers around a certain old merchant of Yonkers who is now so rich that he decides to take a wife. To this end he employs a matchmaker, a woman who subsequently becomes involved with two of his menial clerks, assorted young and lovely ladies, and the headwaiter at an expensive restaurant where this swift farce runs headlong into a hilarious climax of complication.

After everyone gets all straightened out romantically and everyone has his heart's desire, the merchant of Yonkers finds himself affianced to the astute matchmaker herself. He, who was so shrewd in business, is putty in the hands of Mrs. Dolly Levi, the matchmaker. He is fooled by apprentices in a series of hilarious hide-and-seek scenes, and finally has all his bluster explode in his face.

Sally Minor and Terry Rogers won the honor of playing the leads of Mrs. Dolly Levi and Mr. Horace Vandergelder. Cornelius Hackl and Barnaby Tucker, both clerks in Vandergelder's store, are played by Larry Kempton and Ted Rogers respectively. Irene Molloy and Minnie Fay, both milliners, are portrayed by Peggy Neff and Rita Ingman. The major supporting roles of Ambrose Kemper and Ermengarde are played by David Long and Vicki Dennis.

Other roles include: Malachi Stack — Roy Bailey; Joe Scanlon and a gypsy — Dave Scribner; Gertrude — Sandie Hix; Flora Van Huysen — Nancy Morgan; Miss Van Huysen's Cook — Christy Hawker; Rudolph — Tim McCoy; August — Steve Hammond and the Cabman — Ron Greenwood.

Trail Talk

Dolores Karshner, Glenna Holbrook and Diane Upperman have all been accepted to Columbus Business University.

What did Mr. Hamman say when he tore up the conference room door frame as he was leaving a NHS meeting?

Congratulations Becky Shannon on your recent crowning as FFA Queen!!!

Mr. Wellington, why did you keep asking everyone to write their jokes down last Tuesday? Were you actually nervous about the banquet?!

April Fool's Day is just a little over a week away!! Beware of practical jokes!!!

Twinkle Toes Fields found out that physics is quite a "shocking" experience!

Terry, did everyone really freak out on your grey hair at the party after the play?

Girl Cindermen Begin Practices

With tingly toes and noses, twenty girls braved the cold March winds and snow flurries last week as the first girls' track practice got underway.

The girls' track squad is now preparing for what they hope will be a very successful season under the coaching of Mrs. Pat Ogle. Denise Morrison has been named captain and Janet Schleich co-captain.

The team lost much of its strength when last year's senior members graduated, but it has gained many underclassmen who demonstrate a great deal of potential.

So clear the track! Here come Sugar Bear and her Honies!

In the West, helicopters search hidden canyons and distant hills for stray cattle and calves. A Texas ranch reported that the value of the lost animals flushed from dense underbrush more than paid for its machine in the first six months of operation.

Mustang Country Staff Visits CHS And Newspaper

Six Westfall students invaded Circleville High School Thursday on a journalism expedition.

The "Mustang Country" staff took time off from school to visit with the first and third period journalism classes at Circleville to receive some "constructive criticism."

It was a profitable experience for the six-member staff as they learned such items as the ten different novelty leads and creative ideas.

The Mustang staff felt that Mr. Jim Houck and his classes offered a great deal of help which may result in better school pages in the remaining weeks of school.

After lunch, the MC staff then took a tour of the Circleville Herald office to gain additional knowledge of the newspaper field.

Terry, did everyone really freak out on your grey hair at the party after the play?

Girl Cindermen Begin Practices

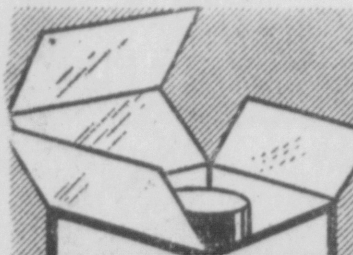

With tingly toes and noses, twenty girls braved the cold March winds and snow flurries last week as the first girls' track practice got underway.

The girls' track squad is now preparing for what they hope will be a very successful season under the coaching of Mrs. Pat Ogle. Denise Morrison has been named captain and Janet Schleich co-captain.

The team lost much of its strength when last year's senior members graduated, but it has gained many underclassmen who demonstrate a great deal of potential.

So clear the track! Here come Sugar Bear and her Honies!

In the West, helicopters search hidden canyons and distant hills for stray cattle and calves. A Texas ranch reported that the value of the lost animals flushed from dense underbrush more than paid for its machine in the first six months of operation.

Ed Holmes Brings Years Of Study To Counselor Job

Mr. Edward Holmes Jr. has been very busy at the blue desk this year establishing new guidance programs throughout the Westfall School District.

Even though this is Mr. Holmes first year at WHS, he comes to the school with some very high credentials.

Mr. Holmes has a B.A. in history and philosophy obtained at Roosevelt University, a Master of Arts in Elementary Education from Roosevelt University, a Master of Education, M.E.D., in guidance and teaching methods from the University of Louisville, a General Electric Vocational Guidance Fellowship from the University of Louisville, and one and a half years of doctoral study in guidance and counseling from Ohio University.

Mr. Holmes can usually be found at his blue desk across from the office or down at the cafeteria having one of his usual cups of coffee. He is a member of the Governing Board of Ross-Pickaway County Title 6 Mental Retardation Unit, a former director of an Adult Education program, and an advisor of the newly formed Westfall Rocket Club.

He lists his likes as food, WOSU-FM, and most of the things around Westfall. He recently served as the host of the Westfall eighth grade visitation day.

Mr. Holmes is a layman in the Episcopal Church and is interested in people. He most recently served as one of the debaters at the question and answer period held at the March 18, Pickaway County Junior Leader meeting.

Mr. Holmes plans to build a more rounded guidance program at Westfall in the coming year.

Spring Brings Boys' Track

Spring brings many changes around Westfall and spring track is one of them.

Forty boys started out on a cold Monday morning for their first practice, led by Coach William Vance and his assistant, Tom Hammond. This year they are on a drive to attain one of the best teams in Mustang track history.

Although there have been many cold days since that Monday, determination prevailed and the running field has changed to the hallway atmosphere. Practice has been held every night since Mar. 8.

Coach Vance dislikes "jogging" and insists on his boys sprinting. He does not mind sharing the track with the girls' team.

In an all over look, it appears the running Mustangs will have a good group of sprinters and middle distance runners. The team will have an inter-squad meet Mar. 25 and make their debut on Mar. 30 against Laurelville.

Everyone is invited to come support their team.

Jim Snyder Is Banquet Speaker

On Mar. 9, Westfall was honored with the presence of Mr. Jim Snyder from Ohio University at the annual basketball banquet. Mr. Snyder held everyone's attention with his straight, down-to-earth comments.

Two important awards were presented to senior athletes at this event. Jerry Williams earned the Most Valuable Player award for his outstanding ability, and Randy Alkire received the Mustang Award for the second year in a row for the enthusiasm he adds to the team.

Varsity letters were received by Randy Alkire, Bruce Beatty, Larry Harris, Kevin Hulise, manager, Larry Kempton, John Valone and Jerry Williams.

Special mention should be made of Jerrold Fields who, as manager, has done an outstanding job. He received a trophy for his diligent efforts and even received two trophies from the cheerleaders for his helpfulness to them over the past years.

Special recognition should also be made to Dick Wellington for his fine job as master of ceremonies at the banquet.

New Year's Habit

Dear Abby: Truth Brings Girl New Life

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: This letter is two years overdue, but nonetheless sincere. When I was a sophomore in college I wrote you a letter with tears dropping all over it. I had just found out for sure I was pregnant by the boy I'd gone with since high school. He was also in college. We were really in love, and even though my parents approved of him, I just couldn't see myself telling them that their daughter, whom they considered such a "good girl," was pregnant. I considered suicide, and abortion. Then I wrote you asking for advice, and I will never forget your words:

"Honey, tell your parents at once. They are your best friends. I promise you they will understand and help you. Forget the abortion. You could end up in the hands of some butcher who may do such a poor job that you'll never be able to have a child. Good doctors don't perform illegal abortions for a living."

I took your advice and told my parents. Abby, you were so right. They were wonderful! We were married right away, and now we have the most beautiful baby in the world. My husband will graduate from college in June. I'll graduate six months later. How much do I owe you?

HAPPY I WROTE
DEAR HAPPY: Not a thing. You've just repaid me.

DEAR ABBY: Would you care to speculate on how a man can "lose" his wedding ring on the average of once a year?

NEW YORK (AP) — President Nixon, in his first prime-time interview with a single broadcaster since taking office, defended and explained his decisions and viewpoints for an hour of live television Monday night on ABC.

Howard K. Smith, holding a sheaf of cards to which he referred during his questioning, and the President faced each other in straight-back chairs in the White House library. More than half the time was occupied by the war in Indochina.

Nixon, leaning forward rather tensely throughout the interview, painted an optimistic picture of events in Laos and, without notes, recited off statistics and dates, used World War II events for comparisons and compared his own problems with those of Woodrow Wilson and Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Billed by ABC as a "conversation," it was really a question and answer session on subjects that ranged from the credibility gap to conflict between the president and Congress.

The format was effective for the viewer. The questions flowed smoothly and followed a pattern and the President was able to amplify and emphasize his opinions without interruption.

Although the precedent making interview on ABC was the big ticket item of the evening, CBS, Carol Burnett and company came up with an unusually sprightly hour. The program, taped a couple of weeks ago in New York, suggests that a chance of scenery once in a while is good for television shows as well as people.

Highlight of the program was an Italian opera version of "Cinderella," with Eileen Farrell and Marilyn Horne, classical singers, clowning and hamming it up as the two wicked stepsisters. Carol, of course, was the heroine.

In another amusing sketch, Carol and Harvey Korman played a pair of new-rich Middle Westerners buying a Rolls Royce. David Frost was the salesman and had the best lines: An oath for new Rolls owners never to hang baby booties from rear-view mirrors or racoon tails from radio antennas.

Ferguson Says Traffic Ticket Scandal Eyed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson said Monday his office will probe a reported traffic ticket fixing scandal in Cincinnati.

He ordered John A. Blum, head of his bureau of inspection, to handle the examination.

He said a letter from Richard L. Kiley of Cincinnati touched off the probe.

Kiley's letter, dated March 12, was received by Ferguson March 15.

Ferguson sent an examiner to Cincinnati Friday for a preliminary investigation.

Kiley, in his letter, said he believes the Cincinnati Police Department is being wrongfully implicated in a ticket fixing scandal.

He called the department "one of the nation's best."

Kiley said he had been disturbed when he read about alleged traffic fixing charges.

"The implication that there is wholesale ticket fixing in our police department seriously jeopardizes... worthwhile efforts," he added.

He said a new Cincinnati Police chief was recently selected and has already inaugurated changes that, if successful, should increase respect for the entire police department. Kiley asked Ferguson to audit the city's traffic department.

Blum said city operations had been audited periodically over the years but there has been no detailed audit of the traffic department for at least 25 years.

South Viet Oil Prospects Bring Renewed Criticism

WASHINGTON (AP) — Saigon's embassy in Washington is boasting of bright prospects for the discovery of oil off South Vietnam.

A Senior Senate Republican says the State Department is playing down the matter, lest it become a factor in the debate over U.S. war policy.

In a way, it already has. Some 11,000 letters, most of them generated by the campaign of a Beverly Hills, Calif., peace organization have flooded the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, seeking hearings on the oil question.

"Oil today is what beaver pelts once were to North America," Sen. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., said in an interview. "You can have a war over it but 'this time we've got the trouble first'."

In fact, no oil has been discovered, although surveys in-dicade possible offshore oil deposits.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers has declared reports of possible oil deposits "have absolutely no effect on United States policy..."

"We did not even know about these rumors until recently," Rogers said.

"The State Department has apparently played down the question of oil," said Aiken. "But the oil people themselves apparently have been very much excited over it." He said the South Vietnamese embassy apparently was, too.

The embassy featured the oil exploration prospect in the March 1 issue of its weekly publication Vietnam Report, and said the outlook is promising.

New Trial Won In Flag Case

CINCINNATI (AP) — Joyce Reichman, 19, convicted of disorderly conduct in connection with a downtown demonstration last March in which an American flag was torn down on Fountain Square, will get a new trial, the Hamilton County Court of Appeals ruled Monday.

The University of Cincinnati student was convicted last May with three others. All appealed.

Her attorneys argued that the Hamilton County Municipal Court had committed prejudicial error in overruling her motion for a separate trial.

When he lost the first one, I quickly replaced it with another, which he lost in six months. He claims he never takes his ring off, but if that is the case, I can't understand how he loses it. I buy the ring to fit his finger and it isn't even loose enough to twist around, so it certainly can't fall off, can it?

I don't want to believe that he actually takes off his wedding ring when I'm not with him to give the impression that he isn't married, but what else am I to think? He claims he enjoys wearing a wedding ring if you were me, would you buy him a seventh?

SUPICIOUS
DEAR SUSPICIOUS: If I were you, I would not have bought him a FOURTH. If he really "enjoys" wearing a wedding ring, he'll buy one himself. But don't hold your breath.

DEAR ABBY: It is obvious that your man has other hobbies besides TV football, because your answer to Sunday Widow shows a complete lack of understanding for this growing national sickness. Addition "no TV football is as much a 'cop out' as the drug scene—a total escape from communication. It's not just Sunday, it's all weekend long and Monday nights.

Kiwanis International Wins Freedoms Foundation Award

Kiwanis International and the high school boys' service organization which it sponsors, Key Club International, have both won George Washington Honor Medals from Freedoms Foundation at Valley Forge in the 1970 competition, according to information received by Don Collins, president of the Kiwanis Club of Ashville, and James P. Shea, president of Circleville Kiwanis Club.

The awards, which were announced in Valley Forge, on George Washington's birthday, are the highest that organizations can achieve in Freedoms Foundation's "General Americana Category." Kiwanis' award came for its 1970-71 major emphasis program, "Operation Drug Alert." The purpose of the program is drug-abuse education. The ODA program is directed to the community in general, but ultimately to those in the upper elementary and junior high schools who have not yet been confronted with an option of voluntary drug use.

Key Club's award came for its current citizenship program, "A Pathway to Human Dignity." The young men of Key Club International felt that in order for Americans to want to stand up for their basic freedoms they must first emphasize their own personal dignity.

Kiwanis International has received more top awards from Freedoms Foundation than any other organization, according to club president Don Collins. Key Club International, too, he added, has been often honored by Freedoms Foundation.

T. R. Johnson, president of Kiwanis International, in a mid-February visit to the White House, reported to President Nixon on the progress of Kiwanis' Operation Drug Alert program. Operation Drug Alert, a campaign to inform the community of the nature of the drug problem, how to cope with it, and how eventually to eliminate it, is being carried on by Kiwanis clubs throughout the United States and Canada. Operation Drug Alert is closely allied to the attack on drug abuse called for by the President himself and kicked off with National Drug Prevention Week last spring.

Ohio Guard Gets Riot Gear Funds

The controlling board also released $2.1 million to Kent State University for construction of an arts building and another $3.3 million for business administration classrooms.

Among other controlling board releases: —$2.3 million to Miami University for a library building project.

—$11.9 million to Ohio Water Development Authority for sewage treatment facilities for Columbus.

Stokes, Big City Mayors Discuss Revenue Sharing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cleveland Mayor Carl B. Stokes is among about 30 mayors of large and medium sized cities who will meet with President Nixon here today to discuss such things as his revenue-sharing and government reorganization plans.

Among the mayors are James H. J. Tate of Philadelphia, head of the U.S. Conference of Mayors, and Richard G. Lugar of Indianapolis, chairman of the National League of Cities, which opened sessions here Monday.

Also attending the session will be Vice President Spiro T. Agnew and administration officials, including Secretary of Housing and Urban Development George Romney; Caspar Weinberger, deputy director of the Office of Management and Budget; and presidential counselor John D. Ehrlichman.

The mayors are expected to ask the government to release $600 million in urban renewal funds that Congress appropriated this fiscal year but that Nixon has refused to spend.

Electricity ... powerful worker for a cleaner Ohio.

■ Cleaning up Ohio's air and water, and conserving her resources is going to be a big job. Electricity will play a vital part in getting it done.

Industrial air pollution controls will operate electrically. Experiments now underway use electricity to re-cycle garbage and trash, turning it into usable resources. Electricity powers "aerators," the newest tool in the fight to put needed oxygen back into our rivers. Electricity powers giant shredders that convert old autos and other "junk" into useful materials. Many of these "clean up" operations have begun; more are on the way. All depend upon ample electric power.

To supply electricity for the "clean up," plus the greater amounts needed in factories, hospitals and homes, we must increase our capacity. Along with other industries, the electric companies of Ohio are well aware of the pollution problem. We are hard at work on answers to help solve our part of this problem.

The answers will take time. And they will cost millions. All of us — industry and consumers — will have to share the cost. A clean Ohio won't be achieved easily—but it is worth the efforts of all of us!

Kiwanis International Wins Freedoms Foundation Award

Kiwanis International and the high school boys' service organization which it sponsors, Key Club International, have both won George Washington Honor Medals from Freedoms Foundation at Valley Forge in the 1970 competition, according to information received by Don Collins, president of the Kiwanis Club of Ashville, and James P. Shea, president of Circleville Kiwanis Club.

The awards, which were announced in Valley Forge, on George Washington's birthday, are the highest that organizations can achieve in Freedoms Foundation's "General Americana Category." Kiwanis' award came for its 1970-71 major emphasis program, "Operation Drug Alert." The purpose of the program is drug-abuse education. The ODA program is directed to the community in general, but ultimately to those in the upper elementary and junior high schools who have not yet been confronted with an option of voluntary drug use.

Key Club's award came for its current citizenship program, "A Pathway to Human Dignity." The young men of Key Club International felt that in order for Americans to want to stand up for their basic freedoms they must first emphasize their own personal dignity.

Kiwanis International has received more top awards from Freedoms Foundation than any other organization, according to club president Don Collins. Key Club International, too, he added, has been often honored by Freedoms Foundation.

T. R. Johnson, president of Kiwanis International, in a mid-February visit to the White House, reported to President Nixon on the progress of Kiwanis' Operation Drug Alert program. Operation Drug Alert, a campaign to inform the community of the nature of the drug problem, how to cope with it, and how eventually to eliminate it, is being carried on by Kiwanis clubs throughout the United States and Canada. Operation Drug Alert is closely allied to the attack on drug abuse called for by the President himself and kicked off with National Drug Prevention Week last spring.

Ohio Guard Gets Riot Gear Funds

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio National Guard received $87,280 in state funds Monday to equip itself for riot duty.

The adjutant general's office, in making the appropriation request, said an additional $391,180 is being budgeted for the next two years for similar purchases. The additional funding must be approved by the Ohio Legislature.

The controlling board also released $2.1 million to Kent State University for construction of an arts building and another $3.3 million for business administration classrooms.

Among other controlling board releases:

—$2.3 million to Miami University for a library building project.

Stokes, Big City Mayors Discuss Revenue Sharing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cleveland Mayor Carl B. Stokes is among about 30 mayors of large and medium sized cities who will meet with President Nixon here today to discuss such things as his revenue-sharing and government reorganization plans.

Among the mayors are James H. J. Tate of Philadelphia, head of the U.S. Conference of Mayors, and Richard G. Lugar of Indianapolis, chairman of the National League of Cities, which opened sessions here Monday.

Also attending the session will be Vice President Spiro T. Agnew and administration officials, including Secretary of Housing and Urban Development George Romney; Caspar Weinberger, deputy director of the Office of Management and Budget; and presidential counselor John D. Ehrlichman.

The mayors are expected to ask the government to release $800 million in urban renewal funds that Congress appropriated this fiscal year but that Nixon has refused to spend.

Poise Brings UCLA Bruins Near Crown

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Poise and a tentacle-like defense have paved the way for UCLA's top-ranked Bruins through a number of close games to just a hop and a skip into a fifth consecutive national collegiate basketball title.

The Bruins once were known, in the days of Walt Hazzard, Gail Goodrich and Lew Alcindor, as a run-and-gun, fast break, score a bundle outfit. Not so this time round, says Coach John Wooden.

"It's been well known that we are not an outstanding offensive team this year," said the veteran coach. "Defense has held us up as far as we've gone."

"Whether we've faced a man-to-man or a zone defense, we just haven't shot very well but I've never had a team respond any better to tight situations."

Indeed, Wooden's five has been in hot water a number of times this season but so far, the only loss in 23 games was 87-82 to Notre Dame.

—Lowly Stanford, which wound up the season 6-19, defended UCLA well and played a slow-down offense Jan. 15. The Indians crawled to within two points with just two minutes to play but UCLA hit clutch free throws to win 58-53.

—Third-ranked Southern Cal had UCLA down 59-50 with just 9 1/2 minutes left in their Feb. 6 contest, but UCLA's viselike defense clamped hard and USC scored just a single free throw until the buzzer. UCLA won the key Pacific-8 game 64-60.

—The following week the Bruins trailed Oregon 68-67 with less than one minute left and the Ducks owned the ball. But Bruin guard Henry Bibby stole the ball from Bill Drozdak, raced the length of the court for a layup and UCLA won by a point.

—The next night, Oregon State led the Bruins almost the entire game until UCLA tied it with 40 seconds left. Then the Beavers dropped the ball out of bounds under pressure of the UCLA press and forward Sidney Wicks won the game with a 20-foot bucket, 67-65.

All-Ohio Class AAA Picked

By GEORGE STRODE
Associated Press Sports Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Kentucky Coach Adolph Rupp called him the top high school basketball recruiting prize for colleges this season.

"He's the Tom McMullen of 1971," Rupp said of Ed Stahl of Columbus Walnut Ridge, The Associated Press Ohio Class AAA player of the year and the leader of a brilliant all-state squad.

"I'd like to think McMullen was the Stahl of 1970," said Ohio State mentor Fred Taylor, countering Rupp's statement.

McMullen was a 6-foot-11 Pennsylvania sensation a year ago who wound up at the University of Maryland.

Where the 6-foot-10 Stahl, who averaged 22.1 points for the top-ranked Scots, winds up is anybody's guess. It's for certain Rupp and Taylor are bidding for his services.

Stahl and fellow first teamer Freddie Beamon of Cleveland East Tech will be on display in the Class AAA state tournament in St. John Arena this week.

Stahl and his Walnut Ridge mates face Akron Central-Hoover at 5:30 p.m. Beamon and his East Tech buddies go against Dayton Dunbar at 9:30 p.m. in Friday semifinals games. Beamon, 6-4, averaged 21 points.

Joining Stahl and Beamon on the first unit were Kevin Grevey of Hamilton Taft, Greg Dunn

of Boardman, Steve Wenner of Findlay, John Kantner of Toledo Whitmer, Jeff Montgomery of Miamisburg and Mike Rouse of Jackson.

Grevey and Dunn made the second team all-state squad and Stahl was a third team selection in 1970.

The selections were made with the recommendations of a statewide panel of sports writers and broadcasters, based solely on regular season performances.

Highlights in World of Sports

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Front-running Muskegon grabbed four of six spots on the International Hockey League All-Star first team announced today.

Runner-up Des Moines filled the other two slots and their coach, Terry Slater, was named first-team coach.

Muskegon's representatives are goalie Lyle Carter, defenseman Norm Descoteaux, center Darrel Knibbs and left winger Hugh Harris.

First-teamers from Des Moines are defenseman Bob LaPage and right winger Duke Asmundson.

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — The Cleveland Indians lost a 5-2 decision to the San Francisco Giants in a Cactus League game Monday, but there were some encouraging aspects for the Tribe.

Ray Fosse, the American League's All-Star game catcher last year, could have been seriously hurt when he was hit on the left wrist by a fast ball from Gaylord Perry, but x-rays were negative.

Eddie Leon and Buddy Bradford, neither of whom had done much offensively in previous games, each got two hits.

HOUSTON (AP) — College basketball's five-day big shoot-out starts today in the Astrodome and will end Saturday night when the NCAA championship will be decided.

Record crowds ranging from 35,000 to 45,000 are expected.

Hawaii Stops Oklahoma In NIT

NEW YORK (AP) — A team that came some seven thousand miles to play basketball will stay to play again—but there are no tomorrow for all but one of the "neighborhood kids" in the National Invitational Tournament.

Hawaii, this year's Cinderella team in the tourney at Madison Square Garden, completed first-round play Monday with a thrilling 88-87 come-from-behind double-overtime squeaker over Oklahoma.

Then, in the night's opening of quarter-finals play, North Carolina outthusted and out-muscled Providence 86-79 to gain a shot at Atlantic Coast Conference rival Duke, an easy 78-64 victor over Tennessee before 12,437 fans.

The quarter-finals conclude Wednesday night with Hawaii facing St. Bonaventure and Michigan going against Georgia Tech. The winners of those two games will oppose each other in the semis. St. Bonaventure is the last Eastern team in contention.

Bill Chamberlain, the Tar Heels' 6-foot-6 junior forward, was electrifying in the closing minutes. He scored 10 of his 19 in the final six and added some brilliant ball-hawking—including a steal and lay-in on a Providence in-bounds pass that seemed to deflate the scrappy Friars.

Chamberlain's heroics overshadowed the superb play of Dave Chadwick. The 6-8 senior, subbing for deadeye shooter Dennis Wuyek—out of the tourney with strained knee ligaments—wound up leading the Tar Heels with 22 points. Ernie De Gregorio, the Friars' flashy 6-foot guard, led everyone with 23.

Duke, which like North Carolina, left immediately after the game to return to classes today before bouncing back to New York Wednesday night, also drew away from a close halftime score to coast home. The Blue Devils were ahead by 10 with less than three minutes to play in the opening half, but watched all but one point of it disappear.

But Tennessee never got that close again. Within about six minutes the margin was 10 again and, also like the Tar Heels, Duke resorted to an early slowdown to keep it that way.

Duke was devastating inside against the shorter Volunteers. Randy Denton, their 6-10, 240-pound senior center, poured in 32 points—missing only three of 16 shots from the field and snared 18 rebounds.

Tennessee got 24 points from forward Don Johnson. But with a running game that rarely got out of first gear, Coach Ray Mears got desperate—so he deliberately riled the referees and drew a pair of technical fouls.

Hawaii's Rainbows, drawing the crowds' affection with their hula-girl cheerleaders and "hot pants" uniforms with bright leaf-green patterns, seemed to have made the long trip for nothing in the first half.

They trailed Oklahoma by 14 at one point and were still down by an unsettling 45-35 at the break. But after just four minutes of the second half they were within a basket of a tie—and it stayed pretty much that way until Tom Newell's 25-footer deadlocked it at 71-71.

Texas Are Winners Of Golden Gloves

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Texas fighters ruled today as the amateur boxing kings of the nation, and for Bubba Busceme the title was one he could enjoy threefold.

The cagy, catlike lightweight stowed away his third national crown Monday night in leading his teammates to an overwhelming successful defense of the title in the Golden Gloves Tournament of Champions.

With James Martinez winning the flyweight title and Johnny Moreno adding batamweight laurels, the Texas club wound up with 24 points, smothering runnerup Charlotte, N.C.

Hawaii's Rainbows, drawing the crowds' affection with their hula-girl cheerleaders and "hot pants" uniforms with bright leaf-green patterns, seemed to have made the long trip for nothing in the first half.

CHAMBERLAIN'S heroics overshadowed the superb play of Dave Chadwick. The 6-8 senior, subbing for deadeye shooter Dennis Wuyek—out of the tourney with strained knee ligaments—wound up leading the Tar Heels with 22 points. Ernie De Gregorio, the Friars' flashy 6-foot guard, led everyone with 23.

Duke, which like North Carolina, left immediately after the game to return to classes today before bouncing back to New York Wednesday night, also drew away from a close halftime score to coast home. The Blue Devils were ahead by 10 with less than three minutes to play in the opening half, but watched all but one point of it disappear.

But Tennessee never got that close again. Within about six minutes the margin was 10 again and, also like the Tar Heels, Duke resorted to an early slowdown to keep it that way.

Duke was devastating inside against the shorter Volunteers. Randy Denton, their 6-10, 240-pound senior center, poured in 32 points—missing only three of 16 shots from the field and snared 18 rebounds.

Tennessee got 24 points from forward Don Johnson. But with a running game that rarely got out of first gear, Coach Ray Mears got desperate—so he deliberately riled the referees and drew a pair of technical fouls.

Hawaii's Rainbows, drawing the crowds' affection with their hula-girl cheerleaders and "hot pants" uniforms with bright leaf-green patterns, seemed to have made the long trip for nothing in the first half.

They trailed Oklahoma by 14 at one point and were still down by an unsettling 45-35 at the break. But after just four minutes of the second half they were within a basket of a tie—and it stayed pretty much that way until Tom Newell's 25-footer deadlocked it at 71-71.

Poise Brings UCLA Bruins Near Crown

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Poise and a tentacle-like defense have paved the way for UCLA's top-ranked Bruins through a number of close games to just a hop and a skip into a fifth consecutive national collegiate basketball title.

The Bruins once were known, in the days of Walt Hazzard, Gail Goodrich and Lew Alcindor, as a run-and-gun, fast break, score a bundle outfit. Not so this time round, says Coach John Wooden.

"Whether we've faced a man-to-man or a zone defense, we just haven't shot very well but I've never had a team respond any better to tight situations."

Indeed, Wooden's five has been in hot water a number of times this season but so far, the only loss in 23 games was 87-82 to Notre Dame.

—Lowly Stanford, which wound up the season 6-19, defended UCLA well and played a slow-down offense Jan. 15. The Indians crawled to within two points with just two minutes to play but UCLA hit clutch free throws to win 58-53.

—Third-ranked Southern Cal had UCLA down 59-50 with just 9½ minutes left in their Feb. 6 contest, but UCLA's viselike defense clamped hard and USC scored just a single free throw until the buzzer. UCLA won the key Pacific-8 game 64-60.

—The following week the Bruins trailed Oregon 68-67 with less than one minute left and the Ducks owned the ball. But Bruin guard Henry Bibby stole the ball from Bill Drozdak, raced the length of the court for a layup and UCLA won by a point.

—The next night, Oregon State led the Bruins almost the entire game until UCLA tied it with 40 seconds left. Then the Beavers dropped the ball out of bounds under pressure of the UCLA press and forward Sidney Wicks won the game with a 20-foot bucket, 67-65.

All-Ohio Class AAA Picked

By GEORGE STRODE

Associated Press Sports Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Kentucky Coach Adolph Rupp called him the top high school basketball recruiting prize for colleges this season.

"He's the Tom McMullen of 1971," Rupp said of Ed Stahl of Columbus Walnut Ridge, The Associated Press Ohio Class AAA player of the year and the leader of a brilliant all-state squad.

"I'd like to think McMullen was the Stahl of 1970," said Ohio State mentor Fred Taylor, countering Rupp's statement. McMullen was a 6-foot-11 Pennsylvania sensation a year ago who wound up at the University of Maryland.

Where the 6-foot-10 Stahl, who averaged 22.1 points for the top-ranked Scots, winds up is anybody's guess. It's for certain Rupp and Taylor are bidding for his services.

Stahl and fellow first teamer Freddie Beamon of Cleveland East Tech will be on display in the Class AAA state tournament in St. John Arena this week. Stahl and his Walnut Ridge mates face Akron Central-Hover at 5:30 p.m. Beamon and his East Tech buddies go against Dayton Dunbar at 9:30 p.m. in Friday semifinal games. Beamon, 6-4, averaged 21 points.

Joining Stahl and Beamon on the first unit were Kevin Grevey of Hamilton Taft, Greg Dunn

of Boardman, Steve Wenner of Findlay, John Kantner of Toledo Whitmer, Jeff Montgomery of Miamisburg and Mike Rouse of Jackson.

Grevey and Dunn made the second team all-state squad and Stahl was a third team selection in 1970.

On the second team were Van Gregg of Whitehall, Doug Ashworth of Xenia Beavercreek, Bill Boyer of Cambridge, Rod Dieringer of Lakewood St. Edward, Scott May of Sandusky, Cornelius Cash of Dayton Dunbar, Tim McKee of Cuyahoga Falls and Arthur Johnson of Cincinnati Hughes.

Third team members were Gary Dierick of Lorain King, Craig Lynch of Toledo Start, Dave Miller of Lancaster, Mike Swart of Athens, Clarence Bennett of Steubenville, Jay Schmidt of Mansfield Malabar, Greg Olson of Columbus Walnut Ridge, Dave Erickson of Boardman and Dave Turner of Canton McKinley.

The selections were made with the recommendations of a statewide panel of sports writers and broadcasters, based solely on regular season performances.

Hawaii Stops Oklahoma In NIT

NEW YORK (AP) — A team that came some seven thousand miles to play basketball will stay to play again—but there are no tomorrow for all but one of the "neighborhood kids" in the National Invitational Tournament.

Hawaii, this year's Cinderella team in the tourney at Madison Square Garden, completed first-round play Monday with a thrilling 88-87 come-from-behind double-overtime squeaker over Oklahoma.

Then, in the night's opening of quarter-finals play, North Carolina outthumbed and out-muscled Providence 86-79 to gain a shot at Atlantic Coast Conference rival Duke, an easy 78-64 victor over Tennessee before 12,437 fans.

The quarter-finals conclude Wednesday night with Hawaii facing St. Bonaventure and Michigan going against Georgia Tech. The winners of those two games will oppose each other in the semis. St. Bonaventure is the last Eastern team in contention.

Bill Chamberlain, the Tar Heels' 6-foot-6 junior forward, was electrifying in the closing minutes. He scored 10 of his 19 in the final six and added some brilliant ball-hawking—including a steal and lay-in on a Providence in-bounds pass that seemed to deflate the scrappy Friars.

Chamberlain's heroics overshadowed the superb play of Dave Chadwick. The 6-8 senior, subbing for deadeye shooter Dennis Wuyeyik—out of the tourney with strained knee ligaments—wound up leading the Tar Heels with 22 points. Ernie De Gregorio, the Friars' flashy 6-foot guard, led everyone with 23.

These Teledyne Packard Bell stereo consoles not only sound beautiful, but they have the looks to go with it. That's because their cabinets are built by old-world construction methods, and are finished by hand to a deep satin finish. Inside there's a lot worth looking at too. Like the new Teledyne Packard Bell SST (Station Seeking Tuner). All you have to do is push a button on the control panel and SST finds its own way to any AM, FM, or FM Stereo station. For example, if you want to seek AM only, push the AM button, and SST will seek out only AM stations. The same thing with FM or FM Stereo stations. There's also a new solid-state sound system with the best sound quality and clarity ever to come out of Packard Bell.

These Stereo Consoles Are Priced at $699.95
Other Beautiful Models from $299.95

Which is really not a lot of money considering there's more to these stereos than meet the ear. TELEDYNE PACKARD BELL

YOU CAN SEE THERE'S MORE TO A TELEDYNE PACKARD BELL STEREO THAN MEETS THE EAR.

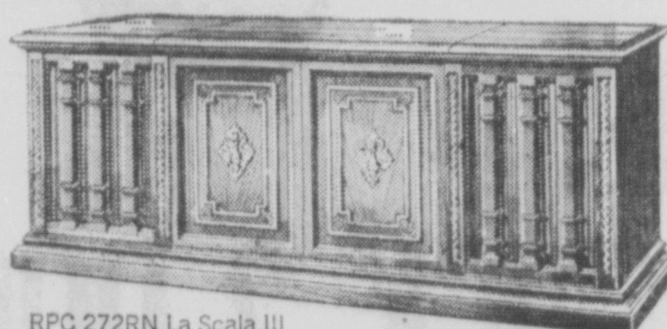

RPC 272ED Del Rio III Espania® Granada Oak

RPC 272MP Venetia III Mediterranean Pecan with casters.

RPC 272CL Devonshire III Burnished Colonial Maple with casters.

RPC 272RN La Scala III Renaissance Antigua® Walnut with casters.

These Teledyne Packard Bell stereo consoles not only sound beautiful, but they have the looks to go with it. That's because their cabinets are built by old-world construction methods, and are finished by hand to a deep satin finish. Inside there's a lot worth looking at too. Like the new Teledyne Packard Bell SST (Station Seeking Tuner). All you have to do is push a button on the control panel and SST finds its own way to any AM, FM, or FM Stereo station. For example, if you want to seek AM only, push the AM button, and SST will seek out only AM stations. The same thing with FM or FM Stereo stations. There's also a new solid-state sound system with the best sound quality and clarity ever to come out of Packard Bell.

These Stereo Consoles Are Priced at $699.95
Other Beautiful Models from $299.95

Which is really not a lot of money considering there's more to these stereos than meet the ear. TELEDYNE PACKARD BELL

American Teachers Flood Aussies With Applications

By WILLIAM J. WAUGH
AP Education Writer
WASHINGTON (AP)—At the rate of 1,000 inquiries a week, American teachers are inundating Australian educators with responses to an advertising campaign inviting them to leave the United States to "teach in the happy country down under."

It is the second year that the Australian state of New South Wales has come to America market looking for math and science teachers, the Australian embassy said.

Last year 300 teachers were hired from the 14,000 persons who inquired, said Bill Robinson, a New South Wales recruitment officer. He said this year's hiring goal is 1,000 teachers.

Australian states are responsible for their own education systems, Lionel Mead, Australian immigration attaché, said, and at the present time are unable to supply enough teachers "as more people are going on to secondary school."

The states of Victoria and Tasmania already have been in America recruiting small numbers of math and science instructors, he said, and the states of South Australia, Queensland and Western Australia "May come in later" looking for teachers.

New South Wales has established an office at the Hotel McAlpin in New York City and is advertising in professional magazines and other media to reach potential teachers in all 50 states and Canada, recruiter Robinson said.

State Patrol Loses Bid For Funds

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — For the second time in three months the State Emergency Board rebuffed the Highway Patrol's request for funds to pay for increased security at the State Capital and Governor's Mansion.

The board, by a 3-2 vote, approved a two week delay Monday on release of $49,540 to the Patrol at the request of Sen. Robert Shaw, R-16 Columbus.

Shaw, who has opposed the Highway Patrol's proposal for months, asked the Legislative Service Commission to prepare a statement on the legality of such a transfer of funds.

Shaw said the patrol automatically provides security when it is needed on any state property.

The money was sought by the patrol to finance a 20-man security force for around-the-clock duty at the Statehouse and Governor's Mansion.

The Ohio Supreme Court has already contracted with the patrol to hire off-duty state troopers for daytime duty at the Statehouse Annex.

The board rejected a Patrol request for $100,000 for similar duty last December.

Hire Woman Pen Guard

MANSFIELD, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio State Reformatory has, in the words of Supt. Bernard I. Barton, "struck a blow for women's lib."

It has hired Doris Balyeat as the reformatory's first woman correction officer and Ohio's first woman officer in an all-male prison.

Mrs. Balyeat didn't even apply for the position. She had sought a clerical job at the reformatory, but then turned down the job offer. She was asked to consider "something else," which turned out to be the security post.

A former member of the Women's Army Corps, Mrs. Balyeat has completed a two-week training program which included walking the prison wall and rifle range target practice.

Her duties will be in the mail room and the visitors' area—where she will be doing "something no other corrections officer has been permitted to do... shake down female visitors to the prison who might be carrying weapons or other contraband materials."

New South Wales describes salaries as "comparable to other professional salaries." A federal government pamphlet states that a teacher with a bachelor's degree would get $3,677 the first year and $5,412 after 10 years under present scales.

Robinson said his state is primarily looking for young teachers. He said he had been "surprised at the number of American couples applying. They represent about 20 per cent of the total."

Bank Lowers Savings, Loan Interest Rates

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Interest rates on savings and loans have been lowered by three Cleveland banks and other banks in the city are expected to follow.

Cleveland Trust Co., Ohio largest bank; Society National Bank and Continental Bank announced Monday that effective immediately the prime rate for corporate borrowers would be reduced one-quarter of 1 per cent to 5 1/4 per cent and the minimum mortgage rate would be 7 per cent.

The banks also announced that interest rates on new saving accounts would be lowered by one-half of 1 per cent to 4 per cent, effective today. The cut on old savings accounts will be effective April 1. At that time rates on consumer loans — for automobiles, appliances, etc. — will be cut the same percentage.

It is anticipated that similar action may be taken by savings and loan associations here, where the passbook rate is now 5 per cent.

Several savings and loan leaders said, however, that a reduction might not be possible until July 1 because many pay interest on a semi-annual basis guaranteed through June 30.

The prime lending rate also was reduced to 5 1/4 per cent by Union Commerce Bank here and three banks in Akron—First National Bank of Akron, Akron National Bank and Firestone Bank.

SST Fund Impact Noted

CINCINNATI (AP) — Loss of Congressional funding for the controversial Supersonic Transport prototype airplane (SST) would mean a net loss of $70-$100-million over the next two years to Greater Cincinnati, spokesmen for the General Electric Co. predicted Monday.

GE listed the Greater Cincinnati area as including Hamilton, Butler, and Clermont counties in Ohio; Boone, Kenton and Campbell counties in Kentucky and Dearborn County in Indiana.

Paul Dawson, general manager of General Electric's GE 4 department at its plant in suburban Evendale, said that at the peak, 2,100 jobs would be lost at firms, including GE, which are supplying components for the SST engine program.

He said GE has 1,500 persons now employed on the SST engine program and that "The payroll for these GE people amounts to about $15 million a year."

Dawson also estimated that there would be 12,500 eventual new jobs created if the SST program is funded.

Recent Cases Highlight Poison Prevention Week

Now is a good time to clean out the medicine cabinet, especially in homes where there are children. March 21-27 is National Poison Prevention Week.

Last week a two-year-old boy was rushed to Children's Hospital Poison Control Center, Columbus, after he ate 25 baby aspirins. During the same week a three-year-old girl was treated after she swallowed five anti-depressant capsules, a 32-year-old woman was brought to the Center after taking more than 20 tranquilizers and an 11-year-old girl was treated after she took 20 tranquilizers from her parents' medicine cabinet.

J. Philip Ambuel, M.D., medical director of the Hospital's Outpatient Department, which includes the Poison Control Center, says that last year the Center received 4,942 calls for assistance. Of these, more than 1,300 cases were treated at the Hospital.

The Poison Control Center is a facility for immediate help and community education in the battle to prevent death, serious damage or violent illness from poisoning.

Kingston Woman Struck By Auto On Route 159

Nancy Cradelbaugh, 25, of Kingston, was admitted to Lancaster-Fairfield County Hospital early Sunday morning after being struck by a car in front of Four Acres night club on Route 159.

The accident occurred at 2:08 a.m. when the woman walked between two parked cars into the path of a southbound auto driven by Donald Hoffman, 22, of Stoutsville. She was knocked 126 feet into the air by the impact and suffered multiple injuries.

Her condition is listed as "fair."

Student Sentenced

CINCINNATI (AP) — Michael Coston, 17, a former Taft High School student was sentenced to an indeterminate sentence at the Ohio Youth Commission facility in Columbus Monday in connection with an attack March 3 on Vice Principal Major McNeil. Police said McNeil suffered head injuries.

poisoning. The Center treats poisoning cases of both children and adults.

"The greatest number of cases of accidental poisoning are among children under six years old," he says.

Why is accidental poisoning most common among young children?

"Kids are curious," Dr. Ambuel says. "They'll have a tea party and serve the aspirin they find in the bathroom."

Staff members who man the Poison Control Center 21 hours a day receive more than 400 calls a month from persons anxious about the possible poisonous effects of a variety of products. They get questions about everything from weed killers to hand cream, from furniture polish to tranquilizers. "The most common cause of accidental poisoning is too much aspirin," Dr. Ambuel says.

Located in the Hospital's emergency room, the Center is able to consult with physicians immediately and relay first aid instructions if necessary.

As one of more than 500 in the nation, the Poison Control Center at Children's Hospital is served by a U.S. Public Health Service clearinghouse in Washington, D. C. The clearinghouse provides the centers with a constant flow of the most current information on new toxic products and recommended treatment.

Dr. Ambuel says that a second phase of the Center's work is educating the community to the possible toxic dangers of many household products. He notes that increased public awareness to possible poisons has helped the problem in recent years, but feels that reminders are still needed.

He points out that there are several basic rules to remember in helping to prevent accidental poisoning. They are:

Keep potentially poisonous products out of the reach of children.

Be sure products are properly labeled.

Never take or give medications in the dark.

Store internal medicines separately from other household products.

Never take medications in the presence of children.

Use original containers — don't transfer products.

Call medicines by their proper names — don't refer to them as candy.

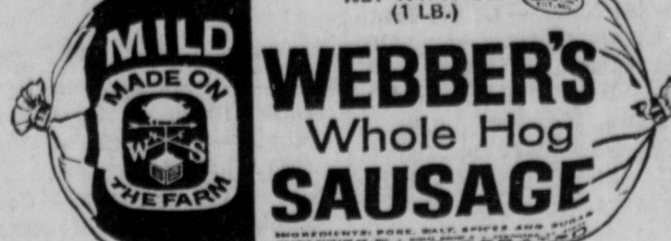

Get rid of old medicines by flushing them down the drain and rinsing out their container.

Dr. Ambuel advises persons to call their doctor immediately if the possibility of poisoning occurs. If he can't be reached then call the Poison Control Center at Children's Hospital, area code 614, 258-9783.

This may be Poison Prevention Week, but it's best to remember the above advice the entire year.

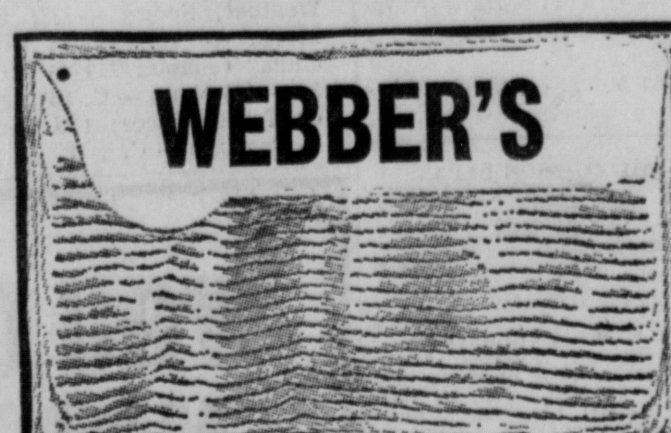

Name Gradison Cincy's Mayor

CINCINNATI (AP) — Councilman Willis Gradison Jr. will become Mayor of Cincinnati April 6 succeeding Mayor Eugene Ruehlmann, who resigned. The announcement was made by the 5-4 Republican majority Monday. The mayor is selected by council from its own board. Gradison, who was vice-mayor, will be succeeded by Councilman Ralph Kohnen, the Republicans said. Gradison was chairman of the powerful Finance Committee following the resignation of William Keating, who was elected to Congress.

Use original containers — don't transfer products.

Call medicines by their proper names — don't refer to them as candy.

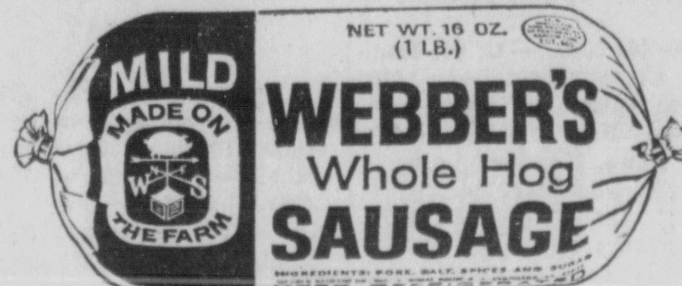

Get rid of old medicines by flushing them down the drain and rinsing out their container.

This may be Poison Prevention Week, but it's best to remember the above advice the entire year.
